Judge Williams, Stoney McLinn,
Stites to Be Speakers
At Affair.

SCHREPFER TO PRESIDE

Tuesday evening is one of the big dates in the borough's calendar, the annual Armistice Day banquet sponsored by the Harold D. Speakman Post of the American Legion.

Speakers at the affair, which will be held in the Legion room of the Community Building on Windsor Avenue, will include Judge J. Ambler Williams, president Judge of Montgomery County; Stoney McLinn, a neighbor over in Merion and sports writer on the Ledger, and Fletcher W. Stites, without whom no Armistice Day banquet would be complete.

Inasmuch as the seating capacity of the Legion room is limited it is suggested that those planning to attend purchase their tickets as soon as possible. They may be had from A. Perry Redifer, Jr., Charles Greyer, Robert C. Collins, Frank A. Schrepfer or any other member of the Post. They will also be on sale at the door, providing the capacity is not exhausted.

One feature of the dinner will be the presentation of the Past Commander Medal to Arthur L. Cooke. Frank A. Schrepfer, the present commander, will act as toastmaster at the affair.

Little Red School House Under Fire

Old-Time Educational Methods Criticised by Snow at Rotary.

A bitter denunciation of the "little red school house" as the background of crime, ignorance and unemployment was the feature of a talk Monday night by E. H. Snow, principal of the Lower Merion Junior High School. He spoke at the meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club.

The speaker drew a picture of the old country school as an inefficient fill-in between hardship and labor. Attendance was possible by country children usually at times when farm work permitted. The buildings were poorly heated, uncomfortable.

The restless and nonconformists were discarded and joined the army of those unfitted for later life. Geniuses, able to master Latin, Greek and mathematics under such circumstances, made good and served to give a false impression of the value of such an educational system.

In fact, according to Mr. Snow, emphasis on Latin, geometry and foreign languages for the pupils not planning a college education, is a cruel

Post Sponsors Service At Methodist Church Sunday

The Harold D. Speakman Post of the American Legion, Narberth, will hold a community religious service in the auditorium of the new Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church on Sunday evening at 7:45. Commander H. Dumstray, chaplain of the Naval Home, Gray's Ferry, will be one of the speakers. The meeting, which will be non-sectarian, will be open to all residents of the community and a cordial invitation is extended to attend. The offering will be devoted to the welfare fund of the Post, which is used to aid families of ex-service men in distress. The Rev. Robert E. Keighton, chaplain of the local Post, is in charge of the meeting.

Fall Luncheon of Narberth Club to Be Held Nov. 18th

The annual fall luncheon of the Narberth Women's Club will be held on Tuesday, November 18, at 12:30. Reservations may be made with Mrs. George N. Gill, 216 Dudley Avenue, Narberth 2324, at any time prior to Monday, November 17, at noon, when the list will be closed.

Members of the Women's Club are urged to attend the Armistice Day Community Service to be held at the Methodist Episcopal Church at 7:45 P. M. on Sunday, November 9. The Women's Club is aiding the movement for community services and has a representative on the committee.

Hear of Peace Work

The International Relations Committee of the Narberth Community Club and some others interested in the subject met at the home of Mrs. Howard Strong, 29 Narbrook Park, Narberth, on Monday afternoon. The group was addressed by Miss Ellen Brinton, field secretary of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Miss Brinton spoke of the work being done in other countries to further peace and of plans for work here. The group expects to meet every two weeks during the winter for study and discussion.

Polls 524 Democratic Votes
Nearly Equalling Number Given Al Smith.

ALL REPUBLICANS WIN

Although defeated by the up-State vote Hemphill carried Narberth by a majority of 308 votes, winning each of the three districts, in Tuesday's election. The total vote in the Borough was 956 for Hemphill and 648 for Pinchot.

One of the surprising things was the large Democratic vote polled for Hemphill, which very nearly equalled the vote given Smith in the presidential election of 1928. Five hundred and twenty-four Democratic votes were polled Tuesday for Hemphill, while two years ago Al Smith polled 539 votes in the Borough. Hemphill's Liberal vote was 432.

District number three, the home district of Harry M. Chalfant, Anti-Saloon League leader, went wet by a vote of 237 for Hemphill to 150 for Pinchot. The closest contest resulted in the second district, where the vote was 393 for Hemphill to 298 for Pinchot. The first district gave the Liberal-Democratic nominee a majority of 126, the vote being 326 to 200.

Repertory Players Please in 'Belinda'

Colorful Audience Enjoys Smooth Performance of Milne's Comedy Here.

(By T. A. E.)

"Belinda," one of A. A. Milne's typically charming comedies, was the Main Line Repertory Theatre's offering Wednesday night at the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club. Playing to an appreciative audience, which made up in distinction what it lacked in numbers, the group of young Main Liners gave a splendid performance, almost equaling that two years ago of "The Romantic Age," also by Milne.

Evidently well rehearsed, the players gave a splendid delineation of their roles. The settings were well executed, with the exception of one door that just would drift open; the performance actually started on time, at about 8:30, and the intermissions, although rather long, were evidently well adapted to the conversational inclinations of the audience.

Miss Eleanor Payne was a charming Belinda Tremayne, and Mrs. Beatrice Carver equally pleasing of appearance and speech as daughter Delia and "niece" "Miss Robinson." Miss Dorothy Stone's polite affirmations marked

He was director of the Department of Public Health and Charities under Mayors Reyburn and Blankenburg. He resigned in Blankenburg's term on account of ill health. During his regime he inaugurated many policies in the department and was one of the outstanding health authorities of his time. He was a member of the Board of Charities and Correction from 1895 to 1899.

Dr. Neff was a member of many medical societies, including the American Senior Military Medical Association, American Public Health Association, American Academy of Medicine and the Pathological Society. He was also a member of the Union League, Rittenhouse Club and the Merion Cricket Club.

Five different European countries are represented by the holders of the five Bryn Mawr scholarships for foreign women. England, Germany, Holland, Hungary and France are the countries from which students were drawn.

Miss Mary Margaret Allen, of Hornchurch, England, received the B. Sc. (Econ.) degree from the University of London in 1930. Besides her graduate work in the Department of Economics at Bryn Mawr, she is doing a practical amount of research in the Department of Public Works in Philadelphia.

She has held several important executive positions and has studied social conditions in her own country and while in America intends to study American methods of industrial research and to inspect the well-organized factories of America.

Miss Odette Thireau, of Joigny, France, studied at the University of Paris, specializing in chemistry. She received from the University of Nancy, in 1929, the Cienice es Sciences and the degree of Ingenieur Chimiste in 1930.

Friends' Central Ends Season With 27-0 Victory

Friends' Central completed its inter-academic league schedule by defeating Germantown Academy 27-0 at Overbrook last Friday in a game featured by sensational long runs.

The outcome of the season depends on whether Penn Charter and Episcopal win their remaining games. If they do they will be tied with Friends' Central for the league honors, but if they lose one, the title will go to the Friends, whose only loss this season was to Penn Charter.

Funk, Quinlan and Baker were the outstanding ground-gainers for the Friends, making many long runs.

Episcopal Wins Another

Episcopal Academy showed that it is still to be reckoned with in the Inter-academic League race by trouncing Germantown Friends, 19-6, last Friday at Fifty-fourth and City Line.

A ninety-yard run for a touchdown in the third quarter by Slack, of Episcopal, on receiving a kickoff resulted in the Churchmen's second score and was the most sensational play of the game.

Haverford Downs Montgomery

Although Haverford School's heavy eleven overpowered the Montgomery School team in their game at Wynnewood last Friday the biggest thrill of the game was provided by Enders, who ran fifty yards for a touchdown for Montgomery after receiving a forward pass. Haverford scored in every quarter. Final score, 25-6.

Scull on Screen

Paul Scull, of Bala, former Lower Merion High and Pennsylvania football star, will appear with the All-American football team of 1929 in the picture "Maybe It's Love," which will be shown at the Ardmore Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, November 12 and 13.

On the Fifty-Yard Line

With TOMMY MACKLIN

Lower Merion put on a splendid performance last Saturday afternoon in a football way when her stalwart eleven met and defeated for the second successive year a strong team from Abington High by a 6-to-0 score.

The yellow brick smokestack which reaches high into the air above the high school's powerhouse smoked placidly on as Albert Adam's boys plowed the ranks of the invaders for successful gains. It took an extra puff in the first quarter when Jack Rockwell carried the pigskin for a fifty-yard run off right tackle to score the only points of the day.

A colorful crowd cheered off and on for forty-eight minutes while the ball zigzagged back and forth, up and down the centre of the field. Abington could gain with some consistency between the forty-yard lines, but when they began to get in the upper thirties Lower Merion reared a solid front which stopped the visitors from further trespass on sacred Ardmore soil.

Captain John Pennypacker and his fellow-classes gained ground almost anywhere on the field. They carried the leather right down to the enemy goal line, and then across it, but on one occasion Johnny, the captain, failed to hold on for a sufficient length of time to make it touchdown number two.

Jack Rockwell was the Frank Merriwell of the afternoon, and his nice gains were beautifully executed. His first move of the afternoon was to take the ball off left tackle for thirty yards to the centre of the field. A couple of moves later this same boy toted the leather for twenty yards through the same side of the line. This encouraged the quarterback sufficiently to try the same lad a third time. And he did. This time on a reverse which took the play off tackle on the right side of the snapperback.

The play worked perfectly and Jack showed some artistic hoofing as he speeded through the defensive lines for fifty yards and a victory.

Dave Ridge would have had a touchdown in the final quarter had he slowed his pace to allow his mates to take out the safety man. He had four of his boys with him and only the one man to dodge, but he cut forward too soon and was knocked down.

And then Pennypacker's first pass to Bradford, which was intercepted on the twenty-yard line, was a touchdown play if the captain had controlled it.

It went ten yards too short and Bradford never touched it.

Adam's stock soared many points during the Abington game. He has moulded together one of the strongest teams the Maroon has ever had. It is not the best in the last ten years, but it compares favorably with the team which was composed of the two Sculls, Peterson, Dohan, Barr, Morris and others.

The thing that makes this team so formidable is the style of play that Adam has adopted. And he has the boys to carry out his wishes and plays, and that's the answer.

The team as it now stands has one weakness as we see it. Captain Pennypacker belongs at end, and his value to the team in his original position is undoubtedly greater than when he is used in the backfield. John goes good against the weaker teams, but his lack of experience shows up clearly against a strong organization such as Abington's. That does not mean that the boy is a failure as a ball carrier at all, but just that he is more valuable to the team on the line. A superb end is one of the strongest factors on a football team. And that young man can certainly play end.

Other Main Line schools took a jolt Saturday. Duke looked strong in their defeat of Villanova. Haverford traveled South and met some of the big men they sing about. The boys of the Scarlet and Black might have won that game with a little luck. A fumble on the Hopkins free-yard line lost them the tying touchdown and they went all to pieces.

On Friday Radnor lost a close one to Lansdowne, and Haverford tackled a coming team and lost to Cheltenham by a couple of touchdowns.

Captain DiJosephs was out of the latter game with a fever. That fact sufficiently weakened the South Ardmore team that they were unable to cope with their rivals.

While speaking of a good tackle, Harris Latta, Lower Merion's left tackle, played a wonderful game last Saturday against Abington. He broke through to nail the ball carrier time and again for losses.

Norristown comes to town tomorrow, and will probably bring half of the county seat with her. The old-time rivals of Lower Merion are not so strong in football, but they are no set-up. Coach Adam's boys will have to play all the football they know to win this game.

Dick Mattis' Junior High Leopards took the measure of the Haverford Junior High last Friday at South Ardmore. The Junior team won, 31 to 6, and they scored almost at will after Mike Iechavelli's run of 85 yards with an intercepted pass late in the first quarter.

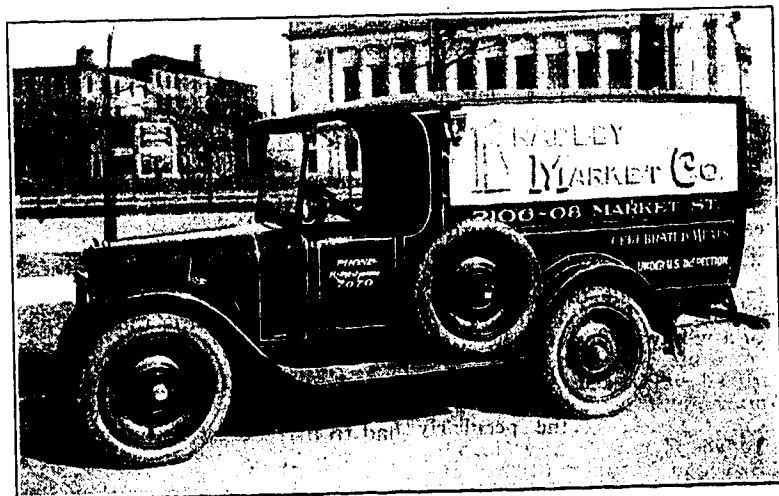

Oh, yes, Notre Dame plays at Penn tomorrow afternoon. Don't look for any overwhelming victory for the Irish, either. Lud Wray's boys can play football when they have to, and unless we are mistaken tomorrow they have to.

In the Theater

Philadelphia this week has the opportunity, if it so wishes, to contrast two actresses, both famous, but each in a different medium. Alla Nazimova and Grace George. Perhaps one judges them so totally different that they cannot or should not be grouped together. It is almost as if a woman should carry a flaming burnt orange fan when wearing a mauve gown.

Nazimova, in the Theater Guild play "A Month in the Country" at the Garrick, is intense, dramatic and restlessly feminine. Her colorful personality pervades the somewhat sluggish lines of Turgenev and saves them from being dull. Nazimova, aided by Cecil Yapp in his portrayal of the doctor, makes "A Month in the Country" entirely endurable and for the most part entertaining. The role she has to play is in itself the unpleasant one of a jealous, whining, vampirish woman. But time and again in the play, Nazimova keeps the part from deteriorating into that of the ordinary nagging woman. She always makes it a bit on the original side, but with just a touch of ordinary realism every so often to remind her audience that all women of that type weren't in Russia or didn't cease to exist forty years ago.

Grace George in "The First Mrs. Fraser" by St. John Ervine, a sparkling comedy at the Walnut, pleases all with her light and deft touch, but at the same time it is a knowing lightness and the delightful effects are achieved with much shrewdness. Another interpretation of femininity.

Other attractions in Philadelphia are: Leslie Howard and Margalo Gillmore in the New York success, "Berkley Square," at the Forrest; Ed Wynn is in Ziegfeld's "Simple Simon" at the Shubert, and Edward G. Robinson is starring in "Mr. Samuel" at the Broad.

Next week will see the "New Yorkers" at the Chestnut Street Opera House with a number of stage and motion picture stars in the cast. Thurston, the magician, will appear at the Garrick and a Schwab and Mandel production, "Trade Winds," will come in at the Broad.

Hedgerow Theatre Presents New Italian Play

The interest that has been shown in new plays at the Hedgerow Theatre has encouraged this unique company to continue preparing more new ones at this time of year—a complete departure from the policy of former years. Tonight's opening is Giacosa's "Like Falling Leaves," a drama by an Italian playwright. This sensitive study of the revelation of true nature in an Italian family will be played with William Price as the father, Ned Potter and Kay Roma as the children who so divergently react to the crises in their lives, and Alfred Rowe as "Massimo," named simply as "Gentleman" by the author. The second performance of this drama will be given next Wednesday night.

"Cast Up by the Sea," that popular travesty of "ten-twenty-three" melodrama, is the play for next Thursday evening. Friday's show will be Muselman's "Poker Face" with Marshall Gatchell in the title role of the suave gunman, and Miriam Phillips as his tough sweetheart.

Of especial interest is the return to the repertory of Ibsen's "A Doll's House" on Saturday, November 15, to take its place beside the later affined play, "When We Dead Awake." This study of a wife who demands her right to her own life despite the presence of her husband will be acted with Gretchen Anton-Smith as Nora and Ferd Nofer in the role of the peculiarly near-sighted Helmer, whose inability to see beyond his own narrow conception of things, wrecks his household and drives his wife out of its stifling atmosphere.

For tomorrow night Hedgerow presents "Lucky Sam McCarver," Sidney Howard's melodrama of "Sam" on the "up and up."

Must We Educate Only for Business?

Many interesting points were brought out Monday by E. H. Snow, principal of Lower Merion's junior high school, in his talk at Cynwyd. Some of them lead to serious thought on the part of those whose children are planning careers.

Mr. Snow, who is doing a wonderful job in vocational guidance at the school, feels that too much emphasis is being laid on the classical studies, which favor the intelligent students, and too little on the bread-and-butter subjects. That, in a sense, is true. But doesn't the idea seem to conflict with another of his statements?

He criticizes, in short, the lack of preparation on the part of the average citizen for the intelligent use of leisure time. We wonder if too much emphasis on work-a-day subjects would not in itself tend to produce such a condition?

The criticism lies, and truly enough, in the increasing adoption of canned and mass amusement. The man who used to go to a concert, or sing or play himself, now turns to the phonograph or radio. He hears canned music at the movies, reads canned features in the daily papers, and shares with every other citizen in the land most of the events of his leisure time. Thus are sideline citizens developed.

On the other hand, not being equipped and educated to appreciate the arts and literature, to understand nature and geography, he is apt to consider a Sunday's pleasure the trailing of a long line of similar cars along a smoky main highway. We turn to bridge and detective novels instead of to good literature and personal sports.

Where do the schools fit into the picture? It seems to us, ignorant of educational practices, that if all classical education be withdrawn from the less favored 80 per cent., such waste of leisure can only increase. A Bachelor of Arts degree may not help a man to be a better storekeeper, but it fits him to enjoy and appreciate his leisure time. Latin, French and German taught to a middling-intelligent boy or girl may never be used in breadwinning, but it will make good reading more interesting by widening the vocabulary.

Can we not assume that the bright 16 per cent. will improve their minds anyway, and that the less favored therefore need the frosting on the cake of education the more?

We agree heartily that there are a lot of good plumbers, farmers and printers being spoiled by wasted years at Latin and algebra, but should not our schools continue to teach "useless" subjects as a partial preparation for the intelligent use of future leisure hours?

Armistice Day

The opportunity is again at hand for Narberth's men to join with the American Legion in honoring the memory of those who gave their lives for their country and to celebrate the day which is remembered all over the world as the ending of the greatest war of all time. The banquet on Tuesday evening in the Legion room of the Community Building should be a truly community affair.

What with the concerts of the Main Line Orchestra, those of the newly organized Community Concert Association and the dramatic offerings of the Main Line Repertory Theatre, the section affords no lack of good things for cultured enjoyment.

Main Lines

(With an acknowledgment to James E. Hammer, former president of Bala-Cynwyd's Neighborhood Club, who suggested the heading of this column.)

While Penn was walloping Kansas, and Villanova and Haverford were biting the dust last Saturday afternoon, we had the pleasure of watching an undefeated Abington High School team bow to Lower Merion. And we believe the game was as well worth witnessing as any college fracas in this section.

When Abington's goal line was crossed for the first time this season, we became as hoarse as anyone else. But we confess abysmal ignorance of football tactics, and we were interested not so much in the game as in the environment and spectators. The difference between off-tackle and offside is slight, in our limited understanding, although to the umpire and referee and linesmen it seemed to make all the difference between penalty and touchdown. What we were especially noticing was:

The brilliant foliage on three sides of that Ardmore gridiron; the Wana-maker delivery truck that loomed on a nearby road in the same place it has stood at every Radnor-Lower Merion game we've seen at Ardmore in recent years; the cheering that seemed so feeble to those on the same stands as the cheerers, but that mightily and pleasantly assaulted the ears of those across the field; the young high school girl who was on her feet in front, most of the game, in order that her new fur coat might be properly seen; that Abington captain, whose meticulousity brought razzing from L. M. fans. We expected the umpire to grin once or twice when the boy measured every inch and checked up on every new substitute, but we failed to see that official crack a smile.

And the girl who insisted in a baritone voice that so and so be taken out, or that the team should hold that line, or, on occasion, get in there and fight. Others seemed to share her opinion, including a couple of small boys. We wondered if some bright person might invent a game of football in which the spectators could participate, not that we object to cheering; it's one of the finest things about gridiron contests, one of the things that makes football more popular than baseball, especially in educational institutions, but it does seem a shame that the rabid enthusiasts are compelled to confine their efforts to sideline coaching; it seems somehow and somewhat like back-seat driving.

There was a police dog, held in leash by a couple of small boys, on the hill behind the eastern goal posts. And when it broke loose, oh! what a scramble of it those boys and their dozen-some companions had climbing, falling, rolling and slipping in their efforts to catch the dog. They hadn't caught it when the quarter ended.

But the way, we admit once more our ignorance of football matters enough to express surprise at learning that the quarters were not fifteen minutes long (allowing for time out, of course). Like the little boy who, when disillusioned about Santa Claus, set out to see if there was any truth in that Jonah story, we are now curious to learn if the distance between the ten and twenty-yard lines is ten yards or if it isn't. It didn't look it to us, although to the competing teams it might well have seemed twice thirty feet.

We're glad Lower Merion is to play Radnor at Villanova this year. There will be more room for the Main Line's greatest sports crowd. And we're wondering if Radnor, with its weak team will repeat past performances against Lower Merion's strong one. That Wayne bunch seems to play better than it can when it meets its traditional rivals. We're looking forward to a grand game.

Enough of football. Next week we'll discuss this and that.

Narberth Theatre Notes

Election returns were announced by the enterprising management of the Narberth Theatre at a midnight show Tuesday night in the course of a double-feature program. Thursday of last week, by the way, the theatre was filled at a matinee performance given for school children in which the feature was "Admiral Byrd's South Pole Trip."

In connection with its celebration of its third anniversary, the Narberth Theatre is offering a fine program of shows. This week-end's feature is "The Sea Wolf," Jack London's thrilling story, in which Milton Sills played his greatest role. Knute Rockne's football series continues, and there is a Laurel and Hardy comedy.

Jack Oakie in "The Sap from Syracuse," will amuse Narberth audiences next Monday and Tuesday, and, in addition, there will be a musical featurette.

"Americans Come." The show will also be given at a 2:30 P. M. matinee on Armistice Day, which is Tuesday.

On Wednesday and Thursday Zane Grey's "Last of the Duanes" will appear in its thrilling talking version, and on Friday and Saturday Olsen and Johnson, comedians de luxe, will star in "Oh, Sailor, Behave!"

Egyptian Theatre News

Robert Montgomery and Leila Hyams are among the stars in "Sins of the Children," a drama of a German barber and his wife and children, who find fortune and trouble in America. It is playing at the Egyptian Theatre this week-end. A change of program at this Saturday's matinee will enable the children's party to enjoy "Concentratin' Kid," a Hoot Gibson Western "talkie."

Really filmed in Northern Ontario, "The Silent Enemy," playing at the Cynwyd playhouse next Monday and Tuesday, concerns Ojibway Indians, who were induced to stage the drama in order that their traditions might be preserved. For the benefit of school children, a special matinee will be given at 3:45 P. M. Monday.

Ann Harding, popular stage and screen actress, will appear in her success, "Paris Bound," at the Egyptian next Wednesday and Thursday.

"Let's Go Native," a frivolous narrative about a revue, Argentinians, a "hard-berled" cab driver, shipwreck, rescue and an earthquake, is coming to Cynwyd next week-end. In the amusing cast are Jack Oakie, Skeets Gallagher, Eugene Pallette, Jeanette MacDonald, Kay Francis, etc. And there are five songs, including "My Mad Moment" and "Let's Go Native."

Indian Epic Coming to Egyptian Monday Was Filmed in Temegami Wilds

"The Silent Enemy," the living drama of the American Redman in his native wilds, which is playing at the Egyptian Theatre, Cynwyd, next Monday and Tuesday evening and Monday afternoon, is the realization of the dream of William Douglas Burden, prominent young society man, student, explorer. It was his ambition to make not only a valuable record, but an exciting motion picture as well, with full-blooded Indians as the actors.

Into the wilds of Northern Ontario he went with William C. Chanler and several expert picture-makers, filming a quarter of a million feet of Indian and wild animal life scenes, of which the necessary 8000 feet is embodied in "The Silent Enemy." No "talkie," the picture has a well synchronized musical score, written by Massard Kur Zhene, a student of Ojibway melodies. A short talking sequence, in which Chief Yellow Robe (Chetoga) explains what the picture means to his people, is used as a prologue.

"The Silent Enemy" is not a scenic picture, although the cameras have caught some of the most inspiring scenic effects ever seen on the screen. It is a thrilling drama, which concerns the loves, hates, wiles, fights and sacrifices of members of the Ojibway tribe, in the Temegami Forest Reserve.

The Meteors and Colts are now tied for first place in the Narberth Church Bowling League. In last Friday's matches, the Pilots attempted to use a little strategy to trim the fast-traveling Colts by coming dressed in Hallowe'en attire with the hope the Colts would become skittish on account of the fancy costumes and thereby fail to see the pins. The result was that the Colts took all three games to tie the Meteors. Four other teams are only a few points behind. The weekly prize went to H. Humphries, of the Meteors.

Former Merion Man Saved From Death

Sydney Grier Gest Is Rescued
When Three Companions Drown.

Sydney Grier Gest, formerly of Merion and now vice consul at Havana, was rescued from the sea while three companions lost their lives. A party of seven, including Mr. and Mrs. Gest, Mr. and John T. Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. William I. Jackson and Mr. Sherbourne Gillingham, had gone to Buey Vaca Beach to picnic. Mr. Jackson and Mr. Gillingham were vice consuls at Havana and Mr. Wainwright, whose mother is Mrs. Clement Biddle, of Philadelphia, was vice consul at Matanzas.

Mrs. Gest, Mrs. Jackson and Mr. Gillingham had donned bathing suits and were sitting on a cliff watching the spray as it dashed against the rocks. A high wave swept Mrs. Jackson off the rock and all the men in the party jumped into the ocean to try to save her. A strong undertow carried Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and Mr. Wainwright out to sea. Mrs. Gest saved her husband and Mr. Gillingham by throwing them a long scarf which she had been wearing.

Mr. Gest, who formerly resided in 325 Berkeley Road, Merion, is the son of Judge and Mrs. John Marshall Gest, of Overbrook. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1917 and was one of the famous "fighting five" in the Fifth Regiment Marines enlisting from the University of Pennsylvania. In 1919 he received the Croix de Guerre for rescuing a wounded companion under a heavy barrage fire. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross in 1925.

Mr. Gest was appointed vice consul at Havana in September, 1929, after completing his studies at the Foreign Service School in Washington. Prior to that he had been an attorney in Philadelphia. His wife is the former Senorita Maria Isobel Escobar, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Alfredo Escobar, of Santiago, Chile.

Lieutenant Mullin Is 'Sherlock Holmes' of Township Police

Joining Force in 1910 When 21, Lieutenant Mullin Has Gained Fame as Investigator; Arrested Grover Cleveland Bergdoll Eight Times.

The second of a series of articles to introduce the members of Lower Merion's splendid police force to our readers.

By ROBERT M. CAMERON

Lieutenant Ignatius Mullin, better known to his many friends as "Patsy," has achieved fame as one of the outstanding criminal investigators in this section of the country.

Now the second ranking officer in the department, Lieutenant Mullin joined the Lower Merion force when a youth of 21 in April, 1910. The force then consisted of thirteen men in addition to the chief.

Of Police Family

Police work seems to run in the Lieutenant's family. His father, John Mullin, was one of the first three police officers on the Main Line, being employed by the Main Line Citizens' Association before the incorporation of Lower Merion Township. These three men covered the territory from Overbrook to Radnor.

After serving as a patrolman for one year, Mullin was assigned to investigating work under the personal direction of the late Chief James I. Donaghy, who rose from a patrolman to chief of detectives in Philadelphia before coming to Lower Merion.

Disguises

The ability to disguise himself as a woman has aided Mullin in his sleuthing work. At one time young women were being annoyed in the evening at a corner in Bryn Mawr by a young colored man who hugged them. When he tried his tactics on an attractively-dressed young woman one evening he found himself being hugged in return in the strong grip of Officer Mullin and anything but a feminine voice exclaiming triumphantly, "I've got you this time."

"My disguise was so good," the Lieutenant said, "that I was able to come into the station house one time and talk with the men I worked with without their recognizing me."

Bergdoll Experiences

Many of Lieutenant Mullin's most interesting experiences are connected with Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, when the famous draft-dodger was living at Broomall. During the two-year period from 1912 to 1914 Mullin arrested Bergdoll eight times. Due to his mania for driving his powerful automobiles through the streets at high speeds he was continually getting in trouble with the police.

On one occasion he was instructed to arrest Bergdoll for violation of the speed laws. "I saw him coming along in his car," said the Lieutenant. "I told him to stop and leaped for the running board when he didn't. Berg-doll told his companion to push me out of the car, but he couldn't. Finally we reached the Bergdoll home on the West Chester Pike at Broomall, where he pulled up. I followed him

Forum Finds Fourth Gospel Interesting Study

The fourth gospel, commonly ascribed to St. John, was the subject of discussion and study at the Forum meeting last Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ka-ber. The group listened to a most interesting talk by the leader, Rev. Robert E. Keighton, who compared the fourth gospel with the first three, indicating wherein there was agreement and wherein there were omissions or new material. In this manner the viewpoint and aims of the writer of that gospel could be perceived. It was agreed that the Jesus of the fourth gospel, viewed separately from all other New Testament writings, seems to be a quite different personality.

Practically all of the Forum meetings last year were devoted to a study and discussion of the Old Testament and this year, the subject of the season's meetings is the life of Jesus. As a preliminary to a biographical study of that life, the four gospels have been separately considered at the four meetings which have already been held this autumn. The viewpoint of the members of the Forum is not fixed nor in a religious sense unanimous. The Forum, as the name implies, meets for discussion, united by a sincere interest in the subject, general agreement as to the methods of approach and a tolerant, friendly attitude of personal contact without which such sessions would be impossible.

The text book that is being used this year is "The Life of Jesus of Nazareth," by Rush Rhees, and the fourth and fifth chapters of that book will be considered at the next meeting, which will be held at eight o'clock next Thursday evening, the 13th, at the home of Mr. William A. Stout, 5 Hampden Avenue.

after which prizes will be awarded to those having the most original and most comic costumes and also to the best dressed woman and man. Plenty of refreshments will be on hand.

LIEUT. MULLIN A SHERLOCK

into a barn which was pitch black. First thing I knew someone hit me over the head with a club. Then we both began to use our revolvers, aiming at the flashes, but no one was hit before our ammunition was exhausted. After that Bergdoll and his companion slipped away and not knowing the lay of the land I didn't try to follow him, but returned to the station house."

"One time," said the Lieutenant, "we found notes lying around outside the station house signed by Bergdoll with the message, 'All Lower Merion cops can go to hell; I've got my license back,' and we didn't know where they came from. Later it was learned Bergdoll had dropped them when flying over the station in his airplane."

"We got quite friendly after a while," mused the Lieutenant. "He asked me to take a ride in his airplane, but I wouldn't go up in the air with that fellow."

One of Lieutenant Mullin's outstanding arrests was that of Alfred E. Lindsay, swindler of New York society men and women. Having gotten information on a tip that the man wanted by New York police was staying at a well-known Main Line apartment hotel, Mullin went down and arrested him on suspicion. Then by a clever ruse, admission was obtained from his wife that he was the man wanted in New York and later Lindsay confessed.

Lieutenant Mullin was born in Radnor and has spent all but the first two years of his life as a resident of Ardmore.

He was married in 1913 to Miss Molly Dunn, of New Rochelle, New York. They have three children, two boys and a girl. Their home is at 204 Edgewood Avenue, Ardmore.

New Type of Cemetery For Chester Valley

No old-fashioned "burying ground," but a spot of loveliness beyond compare is the aim of the builders of Philadelphia Memorial Park, a new cemetery being created in the beautiful Chester Valley. The principal entrance will be just north of the Lincoln Highway and on the Phoenixville and West Chester Road.

This new cemetery does away with the unseemly pretentiousness and ugliness of tombstones by replacing them with beautiful bronze markers. It will be a lovely park, containing a Tower of Memories, Meditation Chapels, wide avenues, sparkling fountains and a wealth of trees and flowers. It will be by far the most beautiful environment ever created in or near Philadelphia.

This Memorial Park provides a helpful, new "Before Need" plan which eases financial burdens and gives the comfort of preparedness in the hour of need.

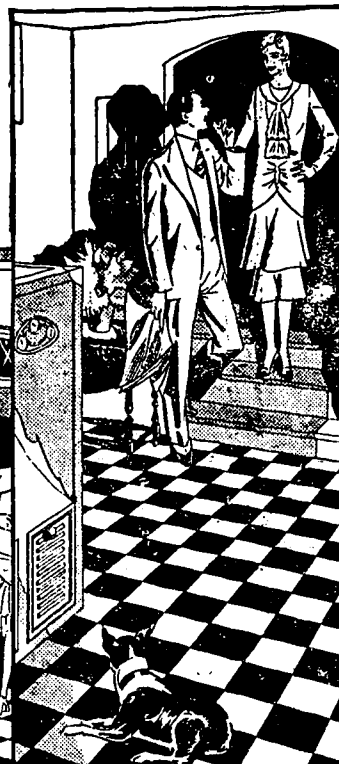

Philadelphia Memorial Park is sponsored by a group of prominent Philadelphians headed by Frank H. Mancill, Edward P. Simon, Thomas I. Rankin, George Wilcox, J. Harker Chadwick, Paxson Deeter, Esq., George W. Statzell, Jr., A. Ernest Margerison and John Kelly.

The architects are Simon and Simon, of Philadelphia, who have designed many of Philadelphia's best-known buildings, including Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Building, the new Strawbridge & Clothier store and many others. Dr. W. L. Halberstadt is sales director. The principal office of the Philadelphia Memorial Park is in the Lewis Tower Building, Fifteenth and Locust Streets in Philadelphia.

FRANCES H. ZIEGLER

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Oliver H. Bair building, Philadelphia, for Frances H. Ziegler, wife of Harry S. Ziegler, of Wynnewood, who died suddenly on October 31. Interment was private.

Educational Methods Discussed by Snow

waste. The schools are still designed for the upper class and brilliant student, rather than for the masses.

Only 16 per cent. of children entering school are of a superior type of mentality, prepared to follow out studies of this kind. The rest, he said, should be prepared for life, not for a college they will not attend.

"It is the duty of society," Mr. Snow said, "to find something a student can succeed in, and not ape the old classical colleges by emphasizing Latin and algebra. Skill in these subjects, often classed as mental exercise, can not be transferred to other types of mental effort in which the pupil will later have to engage."

"Side-Line Citizens" came in for their share of the speaker's criticism. He drew a comparison between the days when a person attended a concert and participated in the actual performance of a living person, and the present method of putting a record on the phonograph or tuning in on the radio. "We are three and four times removed from actual participation nowadays," he said.

Football, and similar sports he approved of for the spectator, for the excitement of the game made the witness a participant in the spirit of it.

"The only measure of civilization," he went on, "is in how a man invests his leisure time." Mass amusement was rapped by reference to Sunday papers, "Sunday parade," motoring, movies and radio.

Education must take care of the less able student, as well as the favored ones, he concluded. Adequate preparation for life's work and leisure must be given, so that we will not become merely a nation of sitters-by.

her a capable maid Betty. George Joly was a most poetic Devenish, Richard Bushnell a properly punctilious Baxter, and Robert Ely, 3d, a satisfying stiff but ultimately ardent Tremayne.

The action and settings paid tribute to the direction of Robert Roland Deardon, 2d; the stage craftsmanship of Barent F. Landstreet, Elizabeth B. Cunningham, John Creighton and Herbert Stratton, and the scenery designing and building of Agnes Sims and Mrs. Beatrice Carver.

A pleasing performance is to be expected of the Shavian comedy which is scheduled for the Repertory Theatre Woman's Club House the middle of December.

Choral in First Rehearsal Asks All Singers to Attend

The first rehearsal of its sixteenth season was held Monday night by the Bala-Cynwyd Community Choral, under leadership of Henry Hotz. Fifty men and women attended the meeting, which was held in the Bala-Cynwyd Woman's Club.

Plans are being made for a novel and pleasing entertainment, of music and dances, to be given by the Choral toward the end of January. Among productions in past years given by the singers were "The Mikado," a night in Dixie, "Around the World by Zeppelin," which was given last year, and an Italian fete, given the previous year, which was arranged by Clarence Gardner, of Cynwyd.

The Choral's first meetings were launched about fifteen years ago by Dr. Herbert J. Tily, president of the Strawbridge & Clothier stores, and choirmaster-organist of St. John's Church, Cynwyd. Aiding him was Mrs. William K. Miller, who is still identified with the group as librarian. Early meetings were held at homes of the members, and in the Presbyterian Church of the Covenant, Cynwyd.

Hemphill Piles Up Big Majority in Lower Merion

Carrying every one of Lower Merion's seventeen districts, many of them by large majorities, John M. Hemphill, defeated Democratic and Liberal candidate for Governor, outran his successful Republican opponent by almost a three-to-one vote. Hemphill's majority in Lower Merion was 3850, his total vote being 6557 to Pinchot's 2707.

The "Wetness" of the Main Line communities was very manifest, particularly in the Merion district, which gave Hemphill a 562 majority in a vote of over 1000. Big majorities were also piled up by the Liberal-Democratic candidate in the strongholds of local Republican leaders. Bala, the home district of Township Treasurer and Republican leader Peter C. Hess, polled 443 votes for Hemphill to 173 for Pinchot. Haverford, Cynwyd, North Ardmore No. Two, and Rosemont all returned heavy votes for Hemphill.

Despite the wetness of the day voting was brisk at practically all of the Township polling places, the total vote being about 2000 greater than at the Primaries in May.

Fred C. Peters, of Ardmore, won re-election to the State Assembly from the First Legislative District defeating his Democratic opponent, A. E. Wohler, of Narberth, by a majority of 5342. The vote was 7071 to 1729.

James S. Boyd, of Norristown, standing for re-election to the Senate in the State Assembly, easily outstripped his Democratic opponent, Edward F. Kane, 7004 to 1785 with a 5219 majority.

Indication of how the Main Line would vote came with the first returns from Lower Merion, in which Wynnewood (the North Ardmore second district) gave Hemphill 414 votes to Pinchot's 71. As the returns came in district by district, the Hemphill majority mounted steadily.

Hemphill's virtual three-to-one victory in Lower Merion and substantial majority in Narberth came somewhat as a surprise, although predictions had been made he would carry the Township by a two-to-one vote. Failure of the Republican Organization to actively support Pinchot, though he had been seemingly endorsed by County Leader Charles Johnson, is given as one cause for his opponent's large majority.

Plan Interesting Program for Meeting of Junior Community Club on November 13th

The first November meeting of the Junior Community Club was incorrectly announced last week as taking place on the 6th. We trust not too many girls were obliged to "wait at the church" for a meeting that never happened, for the correct time is Thursday, November 13. The advantage of this is that it gives us an opportunity to anticipate in print a few of the enjoyments planned for this meeting.

First on the program will be Mrs. Greaves, of the Greaves-Royer School for the Backward Blind, who will bring with her several of the little pupils in her care. These children have been beautifully taught and trained to perform as their talents show promise, and under Mrs. Greaves, direction they will present a short program for our entertainment. Mrs. Greaves will speak, as well, of the work being accomplished by her school, and it will be very worth while to any one interested in social service, or more particularly in work for the blind, to attend. Friends as well as members of the Junior Club are cordially invited. The Greaves-Royer School is situated very close at hand, at King of Prussia, which should double the interest of our visitors' program.

Another high spot on the program will be a talk by Miss Marian Beans, of Oak Lane, who is the State Junior Program Chairman. It is certain that we may expect a "heap of good things" from one whose position indicates that she is bound to be brimful of new ideas for club activities.

From our own ranks the musical note of the evening will be sounded as Mrs. Harold Greist is to give us a piano solo, which, according to her past performances, will be accomplished with a master's touch.

It will be seen that a full evening of interesting numbers has been planned and it is sincerely hoped that the attendance will be equally up to standard.

Refreshments will be served by the hostesses for the evening, Miss Virginia Burgstresser and Mrs. James Douglass Moore.

'Mulieres' Plan Open House At Elm Hall Christmas

Plans for a community open house on Christmas Day at Elm Hall with refreshments, community singing and entertainment were discussed at the regular meeting of the "Mulieres" on Monday afternoon. A free matinee for the children at the Narberth Theatre will be one of the features.

It was decided to postpone the drive for memberships in the Narberth Fire Company until January.

A decided increase in attendance was noted at Monday's meeting. Any woman in the Narberth fire district, interested in furthering the interests of the company, is eligible for membership. The next meeting will be held on Monday, December 1, at 2:15 P. M.

Mrs. A. H. Nulty, of Meeting House Lane, is conducting a question and suggestion box in which any queries about the work of the Fire Company or suggestions may be left.

State Convention of G. O. P. Women Is Next Week

Vice President Curits will be the speaker at the banquet at the Penn Harris Hotel on Thursday evening.

Christian Science Topic

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 9. The Golden Text is, "As by the offense of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life" (Romans 5:18).

Among the citations from the Bible is the following: "Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God" (1 John 3:9).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, one of which reads: "Adam, represented in the Scriptures as formed from dust, is an object-lesson for the human mind. The material senses, like Adam, originate in matter and return to dust—are proved non-intelligent. They go out as they came in, for they are still the error, not the truth of being" (p. 214).

Needlework Guild Notes

The annual meeting of the Narberth Branch of the Needlework Guild of America will be held in the Presbyterian Church Wednesday, November 12, at 2 P. M.

Miss Martha Gibbons, who has been with Dr. Grenfel in Labrador, will tell us of the work there.

Miss Caroline M. Hole, information secretary of the Philadelphia Health Council and Tuberculosis Committee, will be the other speaker.

Directors are urged to get their garments in as early as possible. The church will be opened and the Receiving Committee will be on hand Tuesday night at 7 o'clock to receive garments as well as 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. Luncheon will be served at 10:30.

The Junior Circle of the Needlework Guild desire to thank their borough fathers for the use of the Community Building for their card party last Thursday night and to thank all those kind friends who assisted them.—Helen Baird Caldwell.
